THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA: A FACTFILE

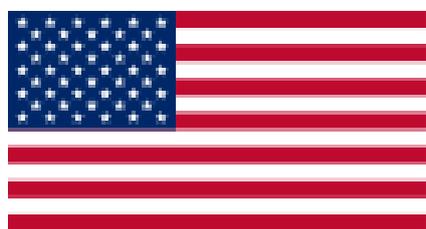

1. The Official Names of the Country

- The United States of America = the USA or the U.S.A.
- The United States = the US or the U.S. (less official)

2. The U.S. National Symbols

- The American National Flag is the major national symbol. Its official name is Stars and Stripes (“Звезды и полосы” or “Звездно-полосатый”). The stars are for the 50 states of the United States; the stripes are for the 13 English colonies, which got independence from Great Britain on July 4, 1776. Sometimes the national flag is also called Old Glory (старая, былая слава). It is said that the first flag was made by Betsy Ross at the request of George Washington, the first American president. The flag was officially adopted in 1777. July 14 is Flag Day. The Americans worship and admire their national flag.

- The second national symbol is the U.S. anthem, which is called The Star-Spangled Banner (“Усеянное звездами знамя”). The melody of the anthem is an old English song. The lyrics were created by the American poet Francis Scott Key in 1814. It has been the U.S. national anthem since March 3, 1931.

O say, can you see, by the dawn's early light,
 What so proudly we hail'd at the twilight's last gleaming?
 Whose broad stripes and bright stars, through the perilous fight,
 O'er the ramparts we watch'd, were so gallantly streaming!
 And the rockets' red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
 Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there:
 O say, does that star-spangled banner yet wave
 O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

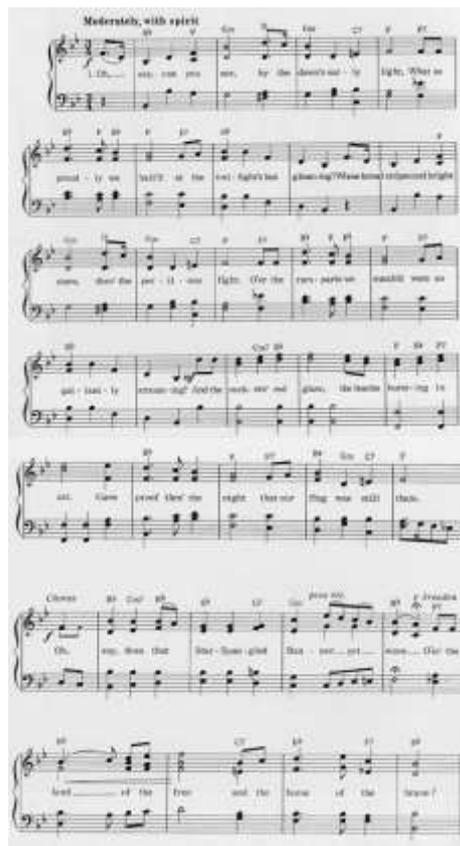

<http://National-Anthem.net>

On the shore, dimly seen through the mists of the deep,
 Where the foe's haughty host in dread silence reposes,
 What is that which the breeze, o'er the towering steep,
 As it fitfully blows, now conceals, now discloses?
 Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam,
 In full glory reflected now shines on the stream:
 'Tis the star-spangled banner! O long may it wave
 O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!

And where is that band who so vauntingly swore
 That the havoc of war and the battle's confusion
 A home and a country should leave us no more?
 Their blood has wash'd out their foul footsteps' pollution.
 No refuge could save the hireling and slave
 From the terror of flight, or the gloom of the grave:
 And the star-spangled banner in triumph doth wave
 O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!

Oh! thus be it ever, when freemen shall stand
 Between their lov'd homes and the war's desolation!
 Blest with vict'ry and peace, may the Heaven-rescu'd land
 Praise the Power that hath made and preserved us a nation.
 Then conquer we must, for our cause it is just,
 And this be our motto: "In God is our trust."
 And the star-spangled banner in triumph shall wave
 O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!

- The U.S. national bird is the Bald Eagle (белоголовый орел). The eagle seems bald because of the white feathers on the bird's head. It is also called the American eagle (американский орел) or the bird of freedom. The U.S. Great Seal and the U.S. Coat of Arms have this national emblem.

- America the Beautiful, a popular patriotic song, is the U.S. national song. It was created in 1893 and is often sung during important national events and ceremonies.

Katherine Lee Bates; Melrose, C. N. D. Samuel A. Ward.

1. O beau-ti-ful for spa-cious skies, For am-ber waves of grain,
 2. O beau-ti-ful for pil-grim feet, Whose stern, in-gas-sioned stream
 3. O beau-ti-ful for ho-rosses proved In lib-er-at-lug strife,
 4. O beau-ti-ful for pa-triot dream That sees be-yond the years

For pur-ple moun-tain maj-es-ties A-bove the fruit-ed plain!
 A thor-ough-lace for free-dom's boat A-cross the wil-der-ness!
 Who more than sell their coun-try level, And mer-cy more than life!
 Thine al-a-las-ter-rit-ies gleam, Undimmed by hu-man tears!

A-mer-i-cal A-mer-i-cal God shed His grace on thee,
 A-mer-i-cal A-mer-i-cal God mend thine ev-'ry flaw,
 A-mer-i-cal A-mer-i-cal May God thy gold re-ine,
 A-mer-i-cal A-mer-i-cal God shed His grace on thee.

And crown thy good with broth-er-hood From sea to shin-ing seal
 Con-firm thy soul in self-con-trol, Thy lib-er-ty in law!
 Till all suc-cess be na-ble-ness, And ev-'ry gain di-vine!
 And crown thy good with broth-er-hood From sea to shin-ing seal A-MEN.

3. The U.S. Status and Government

The U.S. is a federal republic because it is a union of 50 states and a federal district (the District of Columbia, named after Christopher Columbus, the discoverer of the New World). It is also a presidential republic as the head of the state and the government is the president, elected for four years. The U.S.A. is a constitutional republic, too. The U.S. Constitution was written at the Constitutional Convention in 1787 and was ratified by its 55 delegates, who met in Philadelphia (then the capital of the country) in 1788. The Constitution has seven articles and 27 amendments. The first ten amendments are known as the Bill of Rights (“Билль о правах”). The most prominent authors of the U.S. Constitution were George Washington and Thomas Jefferson. The Constitution begins with the words We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union...

The U.S. Constitution defines the federal system of government, in which some powers are delegated to the national government, the other powers to the states. The U.S. national government consists of three branches of power.

- The Legislative Power (законодательная власть) is the Congress (the U.S. parliament, the U.S. MPs are congressmen/women), which has two houses: the Senate (the upper house) of 100 members (senators), elected by popular (plurality) vote for a six-year term and reelected every two years; and the House of Representatives (the lower house) of about 450 members, elected by the same vote every two years.

The U.S. Congress meets at the Capitol, which is in Capitol Hill in Washington. William Thornton is one of its many architects.

- The Executive Power (исполнительная власть) includes the President (a U.S.-born citizen of at least 35 years old and a resident of the country for at least 14 years), not elected by direct vote, but by indirect electoral system in which the votes are apportioned by the states; the Vice-President; and the Cabinet of Ministers, the most important position in which is the Secretary of State (госсекретарь ≈ министр иностранных дел).

The White House in Washington, D.C. is the residence and the work place of the U.S. president.

- The Judicial Power (судебная власть): the U.S. Supreme Court (Верховный Суд), the Federal District Courts, Courts of Appeal (апелляционные суды).

The U.S. government has three levels: federal, state and local.

4. The U.S. Administrative Division

The United States started as a country of 13 former British colonies, which fought in the American Revolution War or the War of Independence and became free from Great Britain in July 1776. The state of Delaware was the first to get the status of a state. The last states were Alaska and Hawaii. They entered the union in 1959.

At present, the U.S.A. is a federal union of fifty states and the District of Columbia (федеральный, столичный округ). Each state has its own symbols, such as a motto, a flag, a song, a bird, an animal and a plant.

The List of the U.S. States and their Nicknames

49. Wisconsin (Висконсин) – the Badger State (барсучий штат)
50. Wyoming (Вайоминг) – the Equality State (штат равноправия)

Washington is the name of the city, which is the national capital of the country, and the name of the state, the capital of which is Seattle. Both the city and the state are named after George Washington, the first president of the U.S.A. The official name of the country's capital is Washington, D.C. because it is in the District of Columbia. But the first capital of the country was Philadelphia.

New York is also the name of the largest city and the name of the state. The New York City is in the New York State, but the capital of the state is Albany, not New York.

Alaska is the largest U.S. state. First it belonged to Russia. But in 1853-1856 Russia was engaged in the Crimean War and did not have enough military forces to defend its settlements on the American continent. It led to conflicts with Great Britain and the U.S.A., so the Russian government decided to sell Alaska as, in those times, it was a vast territory covered with snow and ice, the land of icebergs and polar bears. Of its two rivals, Russia chose the U.S.A. because it promised to help Russia in the international arena. Alaska was sold to the U.S.A. for 7.2 million dollars.

Mississippi and Colorado are states; the Mississippi and the Colorado are rivers. Michigan is a state and the Michigan is one of the Great Lakes. The smallest U.S. state is Rhode Island.

5. The Location and Geography of the U.S.A.

The United States proper (excluding Hawaii and Alaska) stretches across North America: from the Atlantic Ocean in the east to the Pacific Ocean in the west; from Canada in the north to Mexico, the Gulf of Mexico and the Gulf of California in the south. Thus, most of the U.S. states are bounded by the Pacific Ocean, the Atlantic Ocean and the Gulf of Mexico.

Two of the fifty states are not on the mainland: Alaska is separated from it by Canada and borders the Arctic Ocean in the north; the twenty islands of Hawaii lie in the Pacific Ocean.

The U.S.A. is a large country: in size, it is the fourth country in the world after Russia, Canada and China; by population, it is the third after China and India.

Geographically, the U.S. is divided into five regions: New England (the northeast part of the country), the Midland (the middle Atlantic and the upper southern states), the Midwest or the Corn Belt (Средний Запад or кукурузный, маисовый пояс), the South and the West.

The Mountain Chains: the Rocky Mountains or the Rockies (Скалистые горы), the Appalachian Highlands or the Appalachians (Аппалачские горы или Аппалачи); the Northern Cordilleras (Кордильеры Северной Америки). All the three chains are both in the U.S.A. and Canada. The highest mountain is Mount McKinley (6,193m. in the Cordilleras in Alaska); it is also the highest peak in North America.

The Main Rivers: the Mississippi (the longest; its nicknames are the Old Man, the Big Muddy), the Colorado, the Columbia, the Rio Grande.

The Hudson River and Hudson Bay are named after Henry Hudson, the English sailor and explorer, who discovered them. The brave navigator died tragically in the bay which he discovered.

The Potomac River: Washington, the capital of the U.S., is on this river.

The Niagara River rushes from Lake Erie over the famous Niagara Falls, which are the greatest water falls in the world (located both in the U.S.A. and Canada).

The Great Lakes: Lake Superior (the largest), Lake Huron, Lake Erie, Lake Ontario and Lake Michigan (the only one of the five, which is entirely on the U.S. territory; the other four are both in the U.S.A. and Canada). Another great lake is the Great Salt Lake, which is so salty that the human body cannot sink in it.

6. The Climate and the Environment of the U.S.A.

North America has many climates. Being the central state in North America, the U.S. also has several climatic zones. Most U.S. climates are continental with long and cold winters in the north and short, mild winters in the south. The factors that influence the U.S. climate are the oceans, the mountains, the dry regions and the deserts.

The U.S. territory is covered by numerous forests, woods, the grasslands of the Great Plains, tall-grass prairies, short-grass steppes and deserts.

The country's flora (the plant life) and fauna (the animal life) are very diverse, but not so rich now as they had been before the white Europeans with their effective weapons settled on the American continent. The uncontrolled hunting, the fur and feather trades, the constructions of railways and towns (many of which turned into supercities) – all these are the reasons that caused the extinction of many U.S. animals and birds by the beginning of the 20th century.

The Americans got alarmed, and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service was founded to protect the environment. Today the U.S. has 58 national parks and hundreds of federal parks and forests. The greatest of them is the Yellowstone National Park with its great Geysers, which is in the Rocky Mountains.

The energy policy of the United States is much criticized in the world: after China, the U.S. is the world's second largest emitter of carbon dioxide (углекислый газ).

Many countries call on the U.S.A. to take a more active role in fighting the global warning.

7. The U.S. Ethnic Composition and Population

The U.S. population is divided into several ethnic groups.

Indians and Eskimos (the Native Americans, the first inhabitants of America).

White Americans (whites, the descendants of the European settlers from England, Scotland, Ireland, Italy, Sweden, France, Norway, Finland, etc.).

Afro-Americans (blacks, descendants of the former Negro slaves).

Mexican Americans (persons with Spanish names, most of whom are of Mexican origin).

There are also U.S. citizens of other races and nations, such as Chinese, Arabs, etc.

This ethnic diversity is mainly due to the large-scale immigration that took place from the discovery of America in the 15th century till 1920. At present, the term the Native American does not mean an Indian or an Eskimo only; it refers to any U.S. citizen, who is born in the country and lives long in it.

When the Indians first saw the Europeans, they did not understand their language and called the newcomers Yankees, i.e. unknown people. At present, a Yankee is the nickname of an American.

In the national context, the abbreviation U.S. has two meanings:

(a) the United States, i.e. the name of the country;

(b) Uncle Sam (Дядюшка Сэм) = the nickname of the U.S. government and the American people or nation.

The multinational diversity of the U.S. population is also represented in some nicknames that the country has, for example, a melting pot = плавильный котел; a salad bowl = салатница.

8. The Languages in the U.S.A.

As the United States is a multinational and democratic country, it has no official language at the federal level. English is the national language, but, in fact, the predominant one because it is the language of the U.S. government and because more than 80% of the U.S. population speak only English. Spanish, spoken by over 10% of the population, is the second most common language and the most widely taught foreign language.

In some states, people speak in two languages: in Hawaii, English and Hawaiian; in Louisiana, English and French. The other minority languages are Italian, German, Polish, Yiddish, Russian, Indian tongues, Chinese, etc.

The English of the United States is American English, and it differs from British English in phonetics, grammar, vocabulary and in business terminology. It also has regional dialects: the Northern dialect, the Midland dialect, the Southern dialect. But the British influences are still strong, especially in large cities, at universities and government.

9. The U.S. Political Parties

The U.S. leading political parties are the two ruling parties.

The Democratic Party (centre-left or liberal): It was founded in 1783. Its ideologist was Thomas Jefferson. The party's symbol is the donkey.

The Republican Party (centre-right or conservative): It was founded in 1854 to fight for the abolition of slavery. Its ideologist was Abraham Lincoln. The party's symbol is the elephant.

In the U.S.A., the election campaign begins with an election, that is called primaries, at which the members of a political party vote for the person whom they would like to see as their party's candidate for a political office, for example, a president, a vice-president, a governor.

10. The Religions in the U.S.A.

Because of the population diversity, the U.S. government has never supported any one church. About two-thirds of the population are Protestants (Baptists, Lutherans, Methodists). Roman Catholics, Orthodox Christians, Jewish religious groups are quite numerous. In recent years, many Americans (natives and immigrants) have been drawn to Islam and Buddhism.

11. The Main Events in the U.S. History

1000: Leif Ericson, a Norwegian mariner and viking, sails to the east coast of North America.

1492, August 3: Christopher Columbus, a Spanish navigator, sails to find the eastern coast of Asia, i.e. the East Indies. His fleet consists of three ships: the Santa Maria, commanded by Columbus, the Nina, the Pinta.

1492, October 12: Columbus lands in the Bahamas, not knowing that he is very near the new continent. He calls the natives Indians.

1504: Amerigo Vespucci, a native of Florence, after his travels to and exploration of the new lands, publishes his work in which he describes the New World. A German professor suggests that the new part of the world should be named America after Amerigo Vespucci.

1607: Some English people do not like their King James I and sail for America. They establish their first settlement and call it Jamestown, after King James. The life in the little colony is very hard, and many people die. The Indians give the Englishmen some corn to eat (corn flakes are still very popular in the U.S.A.). From Indians, the English colonists learn how to grow tobacco, and soon ships with tobacco sail for England and return with things that the colony needs.

1619: Twenty Negroes are brought to Jamestown and sold to the tobacco planters. This is the beginning of slavery in America.

1620: The Pilgrim Fathers land in Plymouth, Massachusetts, and the active colonization in New England begins.

1636, October 28: America's first college, Harvard, is founded at Cambridge, Massachusetts. The name of the city is after the English town of Cambridge, where the English University of Cambridge is located.

1775, April 19 – 1776, July 4: The War of Independence from Britain is waged. The Declaration of Independence, written by Tomas Jefferson and his colleagues, is adopted and declared.

1789: George Washington is elected the first president of the U.S.A.

1860: Abraham Lincoln is elected the 16th president.

1861 – 1865: The Civil War between the North and the South for the abolition of the slavery breaks out and is waged.

1865, April 9: Robert E. Lee, the commander-in-chief of the Southerners, surrenders his armies, ending the Civil War.

1865, April 14: Abraham Lincoln is shot by the actor John Booth at Ford's Theatre in Washington. One of the witnesses says, "Now he belongs to the ages... ."

A radical republican calls this tragedy God's will.

1867: Alaska is purchased from Russia for 7.2 million dollars.

1908, October 1: Henry Ford introduces his efficient low-cost car. The era of mass production begins.

1915: D.W. Griffin's The Birth of a Nation, the first full-length feature film, is released.

1928: The Warner Brothers release the first sound film The Jazz Singer.

1929, October 29: America's worst depression begins. It is called the Great Depression.

1944, June 6: The second front in World War II is opened. The allied forces of Great Britain and the U.S.A. land on the coast of Normandy in France. Historically, this day is known as D-Day, which means a very important day (День Д).

1945, February 4 – 11: The Crimean Conference is held in Yalta. The three state leaders (Joseph Stalin, the Commander-in-Chief of the Soviet Army; Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the President of the U.S.A.; and Winston Churchill, the Prime Minister of the UK) meet to discuss their military plans in order to stop the war and to destroy the Nazis. They also agree upon the main guidelines of the future world policy making.

1945: The UNO (the United Nations Organization) is founded. 190 states are its members at present. The headquarters are in New York. The official working languages are English, Spanish, Chinese, Russian and French. The major mission of this international organization is to support and strengthen peace and security all over the world, to develop and encourage the mutually beneficial cooperation of the countries and states on our planet.

1949: The NATO (the North Atlantic Treaty Organization = Организация

Североатлантического договора) is founded.

The headquarters are in Brussels, Belgium. It is a group of countries, including the U.S.A. and Britain, which claim that they only give military help to one another. But, in fact, the bloc tries to dominate the world, thus threatening peace and stability on our planet. The cold war between the USSR and the U.S.A. begins.

1972, May 22: The U.S. and Soviet leaders sign the first Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty (SALT = ОСВ = Договор об ограничении стратегических наступательных вооружений) in Moscow.

1975, July 17 – 19: The U.S. Apollo and the USSR Soyuz spaceships link together in space.

1976, July 4: The United States celebrates its Bicentennial.

1987: The treaty eliminating all medium and shorter-range nuclear missiles is signed. The cold war in the Soviet-American relationships gives way to their international cooperation.

1992: The 500th (five hundredth-year) Anniversary of the Discovery of America is celebrated. The U.S.A. now is one of the major most powerful and leading states in the world.

12. The U.S. Presidents

The United States of America is a presidential republic: the head of the state and the government is the U.S. President.

In elections for the U.S. president and vice-president, voters (избиратели) in each state choose among electors (выборщики), who actually participate in the election and support a particular candidate. This group of electors is called the Electoral College (коллегия выборщиков). Americans vote at the age of 18 and older.

The first president was George Washington, who is called the father of the nation by the Americans. Nine U.S. presidents were elected for two terms; Franklin Roosevelt was elected for four terms. The shortest-serving president was William Harrison as he died a month after being elected.

Four U.S. presidents were assassinated: Abraham Lincoln, James Garfield, William McKinley, John Kennedy. Eight U.S. presidents were born in the state of Virginia, which is called the President State due to this.

The U.S. Constitution provides protection against the abuse of the executive power. If a public official, including a president, is charged with a serious crime against the state or with misconduct in office, he/she may be impeached (привлечен к суду и отрешен от должности). Two U.S. presidents had to retire because they were threatened with impeachment: Andrew Johnson, for the infringement of the U.S. Constitution and exceeding his authority, and Richard Nixon, for the Watergate corruption scandal during his second election campaign.

Watergate is the name of the complex of buildings, including the notorious hotel, which is connected with this scandal. Now it is the symbol of corruption in the American political life.

The list of the presidents with the important information about some of them:

1. George Washington (1789 – 1797): in the War of Independence commanded the American army against the British.

44. Barack Hussein Obama (elected in 2008): the first Afro-American president in the history of the U.S.A.

13. The Currency and Economy of the U.S.A.

The U.S. currency is the U.S. dollar (USD = $). It is subdivided into 100 cents. The U.S. dollar is the first most traded currency in the world.

The word dollar originated from the German word taler (талер). All the U.S. bills (банкноты) carry the portraits of famous American statesmen. In informal American English, a dollar is a buck (American slang).

The U.S.A. is the most powerful state in the world and has a capitalist mixed economy. The high level of the country's economic development is due to the following factors: the country's rich national resources, advanced infrastructure and high productivity. The U.S. leads the world in industrial and agricultural production. Another very important factor is that none of the world wars of the 20th century devastated the United States. On the contrary, the U.S. monopolies have only profited from the wars.

The U.S. national GDP (gross domestic product = ВВП, внутренний валовой продукт) is the largest in the world and is about 20% of the gross world product.

By the end of the 20th century, the U.S. population had achieved very high living standards. This fact led to such phrases about the country as the American way of life, the land of opportunity, the God's country.

The United States is the largest importer of goods and the second largest exporter in the world. Its leading partners are Canada, China, Mexico, Japan and Germany. But being a prosperous country, the U.S. national dept is the world's largest.

14. The Largest Cities

The United States of America is a country of huge cities or supercities.

Washington, D.C.: the national capital attracts millions of tourists; the government buildings (the Capital, the White House), the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial, the National Museums of Natural History and American History; Ford's Theatre, the National Theatre; the National Symphony Orchestra in the Kennedy Centre.

The Library of the Congress, the largest library in the U.S.A. is in Washington. It was founded in 1800. A significant part of its fund is the collection of Gennady Yudin, the Russian manufacturer and bibliographer from Krasnoyarsk, who sold his collection to the U.S.A. in 1907 after several unsuccessful attempts to sell his library in Russia.

The Pentagon, the military-industrial centre of the U.S.A. is near Washington. A pentagon is a polygon of five angles and five sides. Now the Pentagon is both the headquarters of the U.S. Department of Defense and the symbol of the U.S. militarism.

New York: the U.S. largest city, called the capital of the world. Originally, New York was called New Amsterdam as it was a Dutch possession. But when the English captured it, the city was renamed New York. The city has five boroughs: Brooklyn, Queens, the Bronx, Richmond (or Staten Island) and Manhattan. The latter is an island, long and narrow, in the centre of New York (bought from the Indians for 24 dollars in 1626).

Wall Street in New York is the leading national centre of business and finance.

The Statue of Liberty is a colossal sculpture on Liberty Island in New York Harbour. This statue is a gift to the United States from the people of France. The robed woman represents Libertas, the Roman goddess of freedom. She holds a torch to enlighten the world and a tablet, upon which the date of the American Declaration of Independence is inscribed. The Statue of Liberty was presented by France in 1886, the 100th-year anniversary of the U.S. independence and the Franco-American union during the American Revolution War.

New York is also a tourist and cultural centre.

The Empire State Building

Carnegie Hall, a concert hall

The Metropolitan Opera

New York University and Columbia University make the city a centre of education.

Broadway is a street in New York (originally meaning a broad way), where different theatres are situated. At present, it is the symbol of the New York show business.

In this picture, you see the World Trade Centre, which consisted of seven buildings. On September 11, 2001, its twin 110-storeyed towers were attacked by terrorists and blown up. The other buildings were also partially destroyed and could not be rebuilt. The whole complex was pulled down and become ground zero. The reconstruction of the centre is planned to be completed as soon as possible.

Los Angeles (L.A.): the nation's second largest city; Hollywood, a district of Los Angeles, is the centre of the U.S. motion-picture and television industries.

Chicago: the nation's third largest city, the most important Great Lakes port.

Philadelphia: the U.S. first capital, the city of brotherly love (in Latin “philadelphia” means “brother’s love”).

San Francisco: the U.S. greatest industrial and cultural centre; a big port and a shipbuilding centre.

Detroit: the automobile capital of the world, the motor city; “General Motors”, “American Motors”, “Ford”, “Chrysler” – all these automobile corporations have their headquarters in Detroit.

Houston: the site of the U.S. space centre the National Aeronautics and Space Administration or NASA (Национальное управление по аэронавтике и исследованию космического пространства).

The other U.S. great cities are Dallas (the financial centre of the South), Miami (the famous resort in Florida), Atlanta (an education centre: Emory University, Georgia State University, Atlanta University), Baltimore (a major port of domestic and international trade), Seattle (a seaport).

It is interesting to know that there are many European place names in the U.S.A. The European settlers built towns in America and named them after the towns of their countries or their famous people. The Englishmen named their first settlement Jamestown, in honour of their king James I. New York is named after the English town York and the Duke of York, the commander of the English fleet. Harvard, the U.S. oldest university, is in Cambridge, named after the English Cambridge. There are also London, Paris, Rome, Madrid, Berlin, Athens in the U.S.A. Some American towns have Russian names: Odessa, Sebastopol, Siberia. There is St. Petersburg in Florida; the city of Moscow is in Idaho.

A number of U.S. towns have the same names. As a result, there are 22 Londons and New Londons, 18 Bristols, several Odessas, Moscows, five Philadelphias. That is why Americans always write the name of the state on the envelope to be sure that the letter will go to the right address, for example, New York, N.Y.

15. The U.S. Education System

There is no government agency to regulate the U.S. public education. Each state has its own laws, regulating the education in this state. There is no national school curriculum in the United States either. The U.S. education has three stages and different levels.

Pre-schooling (at the age of 3 – 5 years): a nursery school and a kindergarten.

School education (at the age of 6 – 18; 12 grades or school years): an elementary school, a high school (junior, senior levels); a high school diploma or a certificate of education.

Higher Education (at the age of 18); institutions of higher learning (вузы):

- further professional education in professional schools and local community colleges for three years;

- academic education at public and private universities: undergraduate studies for four years to get a bachelor's degree; graduate studies for one or two more years to get a master's degree; postgraduate studies for any number of years of research to get a doctor's degree.

Student Classification:

- freshmen – first-year students
- sophomores – second-year students
- juniors – third-year students
- seniors – fourth-year students
- undergraduate students (undergraduates)
- graduate students (graduates)
- university fellows (postgraduate students) = стипендиаты, занимающиеся научной деятельностью

University Degrees:

- a Bachelor's Degree – a Bachelor of Arts (Science) = BA, BS
- a Master's Degree – a Master of Arts (Science) = MA, MS
- a Doctor's Degree – a Doctor of Philosophy = Ph.D.

An honours degree ≈ диплом с отличием, e.g. BA (Hons) = an Honours Bachelor's Degree in arts

The U.S. Colleges and Universities

Total: 1,900 public or privately controlled institutions. High tuition fees, high admission standards, need to work – all these make it difficult for an average American to enter a good college or a university.

There are three famous universities in the U.S.A., which are the oldest and the most prestigious ones.

Harvard in Cambridge, near Boston, is named after its founder John Harvard; it is established in 1636.

Yale is established in the state Connecticut in 1701

Princeton is established in the state New Jersey in 1746.

16. The Science and Culture in the U.S.A.

The United States has been a world's leader in scientific research and technological innovations since the 19th century. A great many important discoveries and inventions are made in the U.S.A.

The cultural heritage of the country is also rich and significant. The American achievements in literature, fine arts, theatre, music, dance are among the most remarkable in the world. Though in the 18th – 19th centuries the European culture and traditions influenced the Americans greatly, in the 20th century the U.S. cultural life acquired its distinctive American national character. And this cultural phenomenon was not due to any impersonal forces, but thanks to the country's talented men and women.

The novels “Moby-Dick” by Herman Melville, “The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn” by Mark Twain and “The Great Gatsby” by F. Scott Fitzgerald captured the fundamental aspects of the national character and are considered the Great American Novels.

The cultural historian Thomas Bender called this U.S. cultural development the triumph of the culture of the eye and ear. Such artistic movements as abstract expressionism and the pop art have been largely developed in the United States.

The United States has its own cultural innovations of which it is very proud. The creator of the classical detective story is the American writer Edgar Allan Poe. The popular literary genres the Western and hardboiled crime fiction developed in the U.S.A. The newspaper comic strip and the comic book (now known as comics) are both the U.S. innovations. Musical comedies and later films (musicals) originated in the U.S.A., too. Superman, the comic book superhero, has become an American icon. Being born in the U.S.A., all these innovations of the American pop and mass culture are widely spread all over the world.

18. Sports, Outdoor Activities and Recreation in the U.S.A.

The U.S.A. is a country of both good sportsmen and enthusiastic sports fans. Baseball originated in the U.S. and is its national sport. Football is the most popular sport nowadays. Americans play both European football and their American football. Young Americans are fond of soccer, a game similar to football. Tennis is quite popular too.

The most watched sports are football, baseball, golf and auto racing, especially the NASCAR (the National Association of Stock Car Auto Racing). Americans also like to watch boxing and horse racing.

A number of popular sports originated in the U.S.A. Volleyball, skateboarding and snowboarding are American inventions. Cheerleading, i.e. specially organized cheering at sports competitions, is invented in the U.S.A. as well.

Many international competitions, including both Summer and Winter Olympic Games, have taken place in the United States. The American football, basketball and ice hockey are the country's three leading professional team sports. Very often, in many international sports competitions, especially in the Olympic Games, the United States wins most of the medals and comes either first or second in the team score.

Disneyland is a huge park of rest and entertainment in California, opened in 1955 and founded by the American producer of animated motion-picture cartoons Walter Disney, who created such world-known characters as Donald Duck (утенок Дональд) and Mickey Mouse (мышонок Микки).

Walt Disney World (Мир Уолта Диснея) is another huge park of rest and recreation in Orlando, Florida, founded by Walter Disney as he wanted to correct the drawbacks made in creating the Disneyland. This park was opened in 1971. Both parks are attended by millions of people, adults and children, and there they can meet the Disney characters from his famous animated cartoons, visit several fairy states and the Town of the Future.

19. The U.S. Holidays, Customs, Traditions

Some of the American holidays are the same as in the other countries of the world. But there are holidays, which are celebrated only by the Americans.

Federal Holidays

Banks, government offices, public schools and higher educational institutions are closed, and most Americans do not work.

Usually Americans see the old year out and the new year in with their families and friends, watching (in person or over TV) how the Huge Apple (the emblem of New York) strikes midnight on Times Square in New York.

- New Year's Eve: December 31
- New Year's Day: January 1
- Martin Luther King, Jr. Day: the third Monday in January, to honour the Civil Rights Leader.
- Presidents' Day: the third Monday in February, to honour all the U.S. presidents. This holiday is after February 12, Abraham Lincoln's Birthday, the greatest of all the American heroes, and after February 15, George Washington's Birthday, the first U.S. president, the father of the nation.
- Easter: one Sunday in spring; Christians remember Christ's death and his return to life.
- Memorial Day: the last Monday in May, to honour the dead in the Civil War between the North and the South.
- Independence Day: July 4, the birthday of the U.S. nation; the Declaration of Independence from Great Britain.
- Labor Day: the first Monday in September, to celebrate achievements of workers and to meet the coming summer vacations.
- Columbus Day: the second Monday in October, to honour Christopher Columbus, the discoverer of the American continent in 1492.
- Veteran's Day: November 11, to honour all the U.S. veterans of all the wars.
- Thanksgiving Day: November 24, a day of giving thanks for divine goodness. It is said that the Indians gave the hungry English travellers a turkey to eat when they first came to the New World. The Englishmen were very grateful to the Indians. Since then, this day has become the holiday of public gratitude. The turkey is the traditional dish at the Thanksgiving dinner.
- Christmas: December 25, the birthday of Jesus Christ. At present, it is a folk holiday with Santa Claus (Father Frost), the Christmas tree, greeting cards and gifts.

Other Public Holidays

- Halloween: October 31 (the holy evening or All Saints' Day), a holiday for children who cut faces in pumpkins and put lights inside. These lights are called jack-o'-lanterns (Jack, the lantern = Джек-фонарщик). Children make up their faces to look like monsters and say, "Trick or treat! Money or eat!" Grown-ups give them money or sweets.

- Election Day: the first Tuesday in November every four years, to elect a U.S. president and vice-president.
- Inauguration Day: January 20 every four years, a special ceremony, at which the newly elected U.S. president publicly promises to serve the U.S. nation honestly and beneficially.
- Groundhog Day (День Сурка): February 2, the weather on this day indicates either six more weeks of winter, if sunny, or early spring, if cloudy.
- Valentine's Day: February 14, the saint who helps those in love.
- April Fool's Day: April 1, a day of humour and funny jokes.
- Mother's Day: the second Sunday in May, to honour mothers.
- Flag Day: June 14, the official U.S. flag was adopted on that day in 1777.
- Father's Day: the third Sunday in June, to honour fathers.
